The Pledge

The President addresses the candidates in these words:

"Do you promise faithfully to observe and loyally to maintain the statutes, customs, privileges and liberties of this, your University? Do you solemnly promise to conduct yourself in all things loyally and faithfully, to the honor of your University and the good of your country?"

Each candidate replies: "These things I pledge myself to do."

The Admission

The Chancellor then addresses the candidates in these words:

"By virtue of the authority vested in me by the Legislature of this Province, and with the consent of this University, I admit you to the degrees to which you are entitled, and invest you with all the powers, rights and privileges pertaining to such degrees, and I charge you to use them for the Glory of God and the honor of your country."

Honorary Degree Recipient

Dr. Lionel McLeod is the first President of the Alberta Heritage Foundation for Medical Research. Under his leadership the Foundation has established a broad range of programs which have had and continue to have a tremendous effect on the scope and quality of medical research in Alberta. Patient care has benefited by the attraction of new high-quality staff to the province, and biotechnology development with industry makes Alberta widely recognized as one of the most advanced centres for biomedical research and training.

Dr. McLeod joined the Faculty of Medicine at the University of Alberta in 1957 and became internationally recognized for his research. In 1968 he joined the newly established University of Calgary Faculty of Medicine as the first Chair of the Department of Medicine. Five years later he became Dean of the Faculty of Medicine at the University of Calgary, a position which he held for eight years until he assumed the leadership of the Alberta Heritage Foundation for Medical Research in 1981.

Dr. McLeod's many honors include being elected President of the Association of Canadian Medical Colleges and the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons of Canada. He has served on a variety of national and community service organizations and in 1987 received an Alberta Achievement Award - Category of Excellence.

To commemorate the awarding of the honorary degree to Lionel McLeod, the Senate is donating the following volume to the Bruce Peel Special Collections Library: Virginia Woolf's On Being Ill (London, 1930). This volume is one of Woolf's most exquisite essays on the psychological effects of being ill, and the literature one turns to in that state. No. 21 of 250 copies signed by the author, it was printed by her and husband Leonard Woolf at their Hogarth Press. It will be a valuable addition to our Hogarth Press collection.

Dr. Robert Macbeth is a native Edmontonian, an alumnus of the University and a former Students' Union president. He completed his graduate education at McGill University and then returned to Edmonton to practice General Surgery. His keen interest in education brought him to the Faculty of Medicine as one of the first two people appointed as a full-time member of the Department of Surgery. He taught both undergraduate and graduate courses, as well as conducting basic and clinical research in surgery, and became Chair of the Department of Surgery in 1960, a position he held for 15 years.

Dr. Macbeth joined the Medical Faculty at Dalhousie University as Associate Dean and Professor of Surgery in 1975 and also was appointed Director of Postgraduate Medical Education for New Brunswick. Two years later he was named the Executive Vice-President of the National Cancer Institute and the Canadian Cancer Society. Dr. Macbeth remained in this position until his retirement in 1985.

Dr. Macbeth has a long-standing interest in the history of medicine and spent time at the American School for Classical Studies in Athens to research the life of Hippocrates, the "father" of medicine. He is a member of numerous professional societies and has an extensive bibliography of publications.

To commemorate the awarding of the honorary degree to Robert Macbeth, the Senate is donating the following volume to the Bruce Peel Special Collections Library: Observationes et Cogitata de Pestilentia quae Annis MDCCXXXVIII & MDCCXXXIX in Ucraina grassata est. (Petropoli, 1750). This volume is an uncommon account of the plague in Ukraine, printed in St. Petersburg and is one of five known copies in North America.

The Faculty of Medicine

This special convocation marks the seventy-fifth anniversary of the founding of the Faculty of Medicine at the University of Alberta.

Established by the University as a provincial medical school to educate general practitioners to meet the needs of a rapidly expanding population of a young province, the Faculty has grown to become an internationally recognized centre of excellence in medical education, research and patient care.

In the beginning, from 1913 to 1922, the Faculty provided undergraduate instruction in the basic medical sciences for students who transferred to eastern Canadian medical schools to complete their clinical medical training. In 1922 clinical departments were established in conjunction with the affiliated University Hospital. The first class, consisting of eleven students, completed the full program and graduated with the degree of Doctor of Medicine in 1925. Since then over 3,500 physicians have graduated to provide medical services not only in Western Canada but also throughout the world. Many have become prominent leaders in their profession and their communities and have brought great credit to the Faculty and University.

Over the years, the programs of the Faculties of Dentistry, Nursing, Pharmacy and Rehabilitation Medicine were begun as Schools within the Faculty of Medicine. More recently programs in Medical Laboratory Science and Health Services Administration have been initiated. Graduate programs in both basic and clinical medical sciences now form an important part of the Faculty's activities.

Today, the Faculty is recognized as a pre-eminent centre for medical research and for the application of new advances to patient care.

In celebrating the seventy-fifth anniversary, the University of Alberta pays special tribute to the many teachers and scientists, both full-time and part-time, for their outstanding service, and to students and graduates whose high standards and sincere dedication have contributed so much to the University.

Congratulations from the Faculty and Staff

Universities began as small collections of scholars who worked together to preserve and advance knowledge. Students came to study with them and, in due course, an administrative structure arose to provide system and recognition for those studies. This ancient structure is preserved at the University of Alberta, with the Faculty and the Students providing the core of the University's purpose, teaching and the advancement of knowledge. The Faculty's task is facilitated by their colleagues in the Academic Staff, the Faculty Service Officers, the Administrative Professional Officers and the Librarians, and the University's dedicated support staff.

The Faculty, numbering some 1,600, is responsible for creating programs of study, for teaching and for evaluating the learning of the student body, both undergraduate and graduate. In addition, Faculty members are responsible for the scholarly reputation of the University by preserving and sharing knowledge and by pursuing new ideas and knowledge through their research.

The Faculty and staff congratulate you, the graduands, on the successful completion of your present studies which is recognized by the degrees to which you are admitted today. Your achievement deserves praise. We hope your present knowledge provides a sound base for an education which will continue throughout a rewarding life.

We would remind you of the advice given to graduands by Dr. Tommy Banks: "Try to be a good person. You will be amazed how rewarding it is."

University Mace

The University of Alberta Mace was designed and crafted specifically for the University as a gift from Dr Francis Phillip Galbraith, Chancellor of the University of Alberta from 1964 - 1970. It was presented by his son, Michael Galbraith, on behalf of his father on May 26, 1970.

Among its elements: the Star of Saint Thomas Aquinas, the Patron Saint of Scholars; the Wild Rose of Alberta; the Maple Leaf; and the separate charges which make up the University's Coat of Arms. The University motto "Quaecumque Vera" encircles the staff. The Mace is made of sterling silver which was rhodium plated after the insertion of the various enamelled shields which make up its elements. A special electro-plate process was used to apply 24 carat gold to other parts of the Mace.

It was intended that the Mace should be modern in appearance but with medieval origins. The preponderance of visual weight at the top of the staff and the rather complex section through the metalwork at this point are reminiscent of the use of the mace as a weapon, defensive or aggressive.

The Mace is carried before the Chancellor, or Vice-Chancellor, in procession and rests on its stand in full view of the assembly during Convocation. Centuries ago the Mace was a symbol of authority over life and death. Today it represents power — but the power of knowledge and the importance of the University in the community.

University Ceremonial Chairs

The Chancellor's Chair was presented to the University of Alberta as a gift from the 1922 graduating class. It is made of solid oak with a padded leather back and seat. Above the padded leather back is carved the University motto "Quaecumque Vera" together with the class year, 1922, and the University coat-of-arms.

In 1987, the family and friends of Dr Charles Malcolm Macleod, Chairman of the Board of Governors from 1950 to 1966, presented a memorial gift to the University of an oak stand for the University of Alberta Mace and two additional chairs for use by the President and the Chairman of the Board of Governors at Convocation.

Academic Dress

The tradition of academic dress dates back to the early fourteenth century. Its origins seem to have been mainly ecclesiastical but partly functional. Since the early institutions of higher learning in England were run by and for the members of religious orders, clerical discipline prevailed, and tonsured heads and clerical garb were required. However, it is probable that long woolen gowns were considered necessary in any case to shield medieval scholars from the dampness and cold of the unheated buildings and that hoods were used to provide warmth to their shaven heads.

The hoods or cowls of monastic orders, which in warm weather could be thrown back to fall between the shoulders, were superseded as headdress by the ecclesiastical calotte or skull cap, but were retained as a sort of cape. After the Reformation the clerical skull cap was replaced by the academic "round cap", a circular, velvet bonnet, which is still prescribed for higher degrees by a number of universities. The mortar board, the hard, square cap that is so commonly used as academic headdress today, evolved from the softer, more flexible "square cap" that was introduced in England in about 1490.

From these early beginnings a code of academic dress gradually evolved. Colours were introduced in the borders and linings of the hoods to distinguish between degrees in different fields of study, and a variety of patterns of both gowns and hoods was developed to distinguish between different levels of degrees.

Academic dress at the University of Alberta conforms to the customary Cambridge shape (a gown of black material falling below the knee with full sleeves cut to the elbow and terminating in a point). Hoods are of the Oxford pattern of spruce green material with a border for bachelors, and a full lining for masters and doctors of medicine and dental surgery, of the colour distinctive of the faculty. Graduates of the Faculty of Medicine wear hoods trimmed with crimson satin.

Doctor's gowns and hoods (PhD and EdD) conform to the Intercollegiate Code in shape, size and colour, with velvet trim on the sleeves in either Philosophy blue for the PhD, or Education light blue for the EdD on a black gown. Doctor's of Laws wear a full-dress scarlet robe faced with white silk.
